Overview

Mark Marciszewski represents clients within the entertainment, media, fashion, and technology industries, bringing significant experience in copyright, trademark, breach of contract, and First Amendment litigation and counseling. He has handled disputes in state and federal courts across the country in all stages of litigation, including pre-litigation counseling and risk assessment, written and expert discovery, depositions, motion practice, mediations, trials, and appeals.

Mark has extensive knowledge and experience with copyright policy and disputes, both in traditional media and disruptive technologies. In addition to litigating multiple precedential copyright cases and counseling clients regarding new and proposed legislation, Mark has published six law review articles focusing on novel issues of copyright and antitrust law within the entertainment, media, and technology industries. His articles have been recognized as among the most important and timely on their subjects, and as such, have been cited dozens of times in amicus briefs and other articles. Mark leverages this knowledge in addition to his trial experience to develop case strategies and communicate his client's interests in order to achieve the best outcomes for his clients, whether it is by early resolution or obtaining favorable judgments through dispositive motions, oral argument, or at trial.

Prior to joining Jenner & Block, Mark spent time as a copyright and trademark litigation associate with an AmLaw 50 firm as well as a boutique IP firm. He also served as a federal law clerk for the Honorable Anne T. Berton in the United States District Court for the Western District of Texas. During law school, Mark externed at National Public Radio and served on the board of the Virginia Sports & Entertainment Law Journal and the Journal of Law & Politics.
