

Partner Lucy Blake Quoted in Forward Law Review on Litigation and Reputational Risk in Business and Human Rights

News

October 9, 2026

Partner Lucy Blake shared her insights with Forward Law Review on how pressure on companies over business and human rights issues is shifting from regulatory enforcement to litigation and reputational risk.

Lucy noted that while enforcement is slowing across major markets, companies still face pressure through NGO, investor and group claims, particularly in the UK. She explained that disclosure laws create their own risk, since the information companies publish to comply can later be scrutinised by NGOs, journalists and litigants. Because of this, companies should involve lawyers familiar with the global legal and political landscape when reviewing these reports.

Lucy is Co-Chair of the firm's Human Rights and Global Strategy Practice. She advises on ESG risks arising from human rights and climate impacts in companies' supply chains and on multi-jurisdictional issues involving conflicts of laws.
