Overview

Sam Crimmins is an associate in Jenner & Block's Specialized Litigation & Arbitration practice, where he represents clients at all phases of litigation and arbitration.

Before joining Jenner, Sam worked at another international law firm where he represented and advised clients in complex, bet-the-company litigation across a wide breadth of industries. His practice centers on defending leading members in industries such as technology, vehicle manufacturers, credit-rating agencies, and the banking sector. Sam has experience representing clients in cases involving issues of data privacy, ERISA, consumer protection, and financial regulations.
