Overview

Iman Eslami earned his JD from Berkeley Law where he was a Center for Law and Technology Scholar and received a Pro Bono Honors Award. He also served as a Legal Fellow with the Center for Consumer Law and Economic Justice, drafting four amicus briefs in the Ninth Circuit addressing significant consumer law issues.

During law school, Iman completed a judicial externship with Judge Rudolph Contreras of the US District Court for the District of Columbia. He also previously worked in the Antitrust Division of the US Department of Justice (DOJ) and the Antitrust Law Section of the California Department of Justice, where he conducted research on competition issues in government investigations and litigation.

Prior to law school, Iman was an economic consultant and evaluated damages for high-stakes intellectual property and antitrust litigation disputes.
