Overview

Gabe Diamond received his JD from the University of California, Los Angeles School of Law, with a specialization in Media, Entertainment, Technology, and Sports. He served as co-president of the school's Entertainment Law Association and as an advanced student clinician for the Documentary Film Legal Clinic, drafting production agreements and fair use opinion letters and reviewing documentaries for copyright, defamation, and privacy issues. He was also a member of the Intellectual Property Law Association and a Mitchell Scholar.

During law school, Gabe interned in legal and business affairs roles at Marvel Studios and Warner Bros. Television. Before law school, he spent nearly five years as a Business Representative at SAG-AFTRA, where he advised actors, producers, and advertising agencies on commercial and corporate/educational contracts, and pursued member grievances. Gabe earned his BS in Industrial & Labor Relations from Cornell University, where he also earned a minor in Film Studies.
