Overview

Amr Aly applies his deep knowledge of law, technology, and engineering to help businesses address patent infringement threats and exploit their patent portfolios, both offensively and defensively. Amr has secured favorable results in major complex cases, including multiparty and multidistrict litigations. He also has extensive experience challenging the validity of threatening patents at the US Patent Office.

Always maintaining an eye on the future, Amr collaborates with clients to understand their long-term business objectives and develop targeted legal strategies. He regularly advises them of relevant legal developments and helps them plan ahead. As a lawyer, engineer, project manager and MBA graduate, Amr brings a unique perspective that makes him a valued business partner.

Before practicing law, Amr worked with major engineering companies for over 10 years. He is the named inventor of US Patent No. 4,999, 225, titled “Powder Thermal Spray Method for Spraying Non-Melttable Materials.” Amr honed his competitive edge as a member of the 1984 US Olympic Soccer Team and playing collegiate soccer at Columbia University, where he won the coveted Hermann Trophy (soccer's equivalent of the Heisman Trophy).

I take a long-term approach to supporting my clients' goals by consistently formulating and evolving strategies to further their business objectives.”
