Overview

Organizations, both public and private, need an exceptional guide to navigate complex corporate transactions. Jeremy Casper advises clients across a broad spectrum of industries on domestic and cross-border mergers and acquisitions, private and public securities offerings, and other corporate transactions.

With his extensive experience advising on mergers and stock and asset acquisitions and divestitures, public and private clients ranging from small cap to large multinational corporations seek Jeremy's counsel. He frequently serves the medical device, defense, aviation, aerospace, technology, and manufacturing industries. Jeremy also regularly advises clients in ongoing corporate governance matters, including private and public reporting companies.

In addition to merger and acquisition experience, Jeremy also regularly handles securities offerings, public debt and equity offerings, private placements, joint ventures, exchange offers, and spin-offs varying in size and complexity. He works closely with clients to achieve desired outcomes on required timelines in all matters, big or small.

Strategizing, drafting, negotiating—we're with the client every step of the way. And the work doesn't just end at the completion of a transaction.”
