Overview

Anna Margasinska assists clients with complex internal and government investigations, managing critical documents, preparing witnesses for interviews and depositions, and developing key facts to achieve the best outcome for her clients. She worked on the largest internal investigation in US history. Anna also supervised a team of over 100 document reviewers on a highly complex internal investigation for General Motors.

Anna also helps clients with electronic discovery in complex legal matters, covering a broad range of industries, including medical, insurance, broadcasting, and banking. She has an extensive experience managing document reviewers, navigating complex privilege issues, and drafting privilege logs. As a former associate, Anna brings litigation experience to her work. She represented clients in major contract disputes, shareholder derivative claims, securities litigation, business torts, legal malpractice actions, and other matters.
