

“Former Special Inspector General of TARP, Neil Barofsky Discusses the Financial and Legal Landscapes,” CCBJ Perspectives

News

March 30, 2021

On an episode of CCBJ Perspectives, Jenner & Block Partner Neil M. Barofsky sits down with podcast host Kristin Calve to discuss what he anticipates within the financial and regulatory landscapes. He shares advice on how to work with law enforcement and talks about his past role as special inspector general overseeing the Trouble Asset Relief Program (TARP). Mr. Barofsky also discusses how Jenner & Block is preparing to help clients facing financial crisis matters with its launch of the Financial Services Litigation Practice: “We have a track record and history of success against big banks, so we thought it’d make sense to take that strategy and formalize it into a practice group and be proactive and focused in taking on these types of cases.” CCBJ Perspectives is a podcast presented by the Corporate Counsel Business Journal. Titled “Former Special Inspector of TARP, Neil Barofsky Discusses the Financial and Legal Landscapes,” the podcast is available for listening here.

Mr. Barofsky assists companies seeking to improve their corporate culture through compliance counseling and monitorships, as well as assisting clients in responding to regulatory and criminal investigations. He is chair of Jenner & Block's Monitorship Practice and co-chair of the Financial Services Litigation Practice.
