

“Claim Construction in the Twenty Plus Years Since the Markman Decision – The Most Important Issues in Most Patent Cases,” Practising Law Institute

Event

December 4, 2020

Jenner & Block Partner Reginald J. Hill was a faculty member for a one-hour, on-demand webinar called “Claim Construction in the Twenty Plus Years Since the Markman Decision – The Most Important Issues in Most Patent Cases.” In the webinar, Mr. Hill covers the rules of claim construction, the use of experts, and the role, if any, of fact discovery. He also demonstrates a claim construction argument. Mr. Hill is a co-chair of the firm’s Patent Litigation and Counseling Practice. He focuses his practice on intellectual property litigation and counseling. Clients seek his help with a variety of matters including patents, copyrights, trademarks and trade secrets, particularly related to technology.
