

“2021: The Changing Landscape for Financial Institutions and Fintechs,” Berkeley Research Group’s Class Action Litigation Conference

Event

January 25, 2021

On January 28, Partner Michael T. Brody will participate in a panel discussion at Berkeley Research Group’s Inaugural Class Action Litigation Conference. Mr. Brody and the other panelists will discuss the key challenges and trends facing financial institutions and Fintech companies in 2021. Topics will also include the impact that the new administration and regulatory leadership could have on consumer rights/protections, CARES Act, litigation, and class actions. Mr. Brody’s panel begins at 1:10 pm ET. Mr. Brody is co-chair of Jenner & Block’s Class Action Practice and co-chair of its Appellate and Supreme Court Practice. Clients turn to him for help with litigation and appellate matters related to a variety of issues, including securities, antitrust, torts, contract claims, consumer fraud, fiduciary duties, and other statutory and regulatory claims.
