Overview

Chasel Lee advises clients on a wide range of regulatory issues in the telecommunications industry. He works with carriers, trade associations, satellite operators, and others on administrative proceedings and compliance issues. Chasel helps clients navigate rulemakings and application processes so they can promote innovation and technological progress.

Chasel brings valuable telecommunications experience from throughout his legal career. As a lawyer and analyst at the California Public Utilities Commission, he drafted resolutions and worked on issues involving universal service programs, emergency response, and wildfire safety. Chasel also interned at the Federal Communications Commission and the National Telecommunications and Information Administration, where he worked on broadcast rules, open Internet issues, and the digital economy. In law school, he served as senior managing editor of the Federal Communications Law Journal.

Chasel maintains an active pro bono practice, with a primary focus on LGBTQ+ rights.
