Overview

Paige is a white-collar defense attorney with extensive experience conducting investigations and representing executives and companies before the US Department of Justice, the Securities and Exchange Commission, state Attorneys General, and District Attorneys. Formerly a California state prosecutor, Paige leverages her significant courtroom and first-chair trial experience to advocate for clients in a variety of forums. She is adept at navigating complex fact sets and devising defensive strategies in cases involving allegations of AI washing, wire fraud, money laundering, data privacy violations, and violations of the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act and the Sherman Act, among others.

Paige also helps her clients proactively assess their compliance with the changing federal, state, and local regulatory landscape before the government gets involved. She provides a strategic and practical perspective to companies facing issues at the intersection of enforcement and compliance.

Paige maintains an active pro bono practice representing survivors of domestic violence and human trafficking. Before coming to Jenner, she spoke at Judicial Seminar on Human Trafficking, Forced Labor and Child Exploitation in Thailand in the Context of Comparative Laws, jointly hosted by Interpol and various NGOs in Bangkok, Thailand.

Paige is a San Francisco resident and active in her community. She sits on the Executive Committee of the San Francisco Bar Association's Criminal and Governmental Investigations Section and on the Board of the Discover Polk Community Benefit District. Paige is a member of the San Francisco Collaborative Against Human Trafficking and the Women's White Collar Defense Association.
