

Daily Journal Calls Victory for Marriott a “Top Verdict” for 2021

A Jenner & Block victory for Marriott International in a California Consumer Privacy Act case was one of the Top Verdicts of 2021, according to the Los Angeles Daily Journal. The plaintiffs in Rahman v. Marriott International Inc. filed a class action alleging that information about members of Marriott’s loyalty program may have been compromised in a property system incident. The Jenner & Block team moved to dismiss, arguing that the potential class members lacked standing to sue because none of them had been harmed.

US District Judge David O. Carter of the Central District of California dismissed all six causes of action with prejudice.

Partner Lindsay C. Harrison, who led the team, told the Daily Journal that the case is “important as a message to the plaintiffs' bar about going after companies that are being particularly diligent and really working hard to protect their customers.”
