

“Merger Trends in the Technology and Telecommunications Sectors,” International Bar Association’s Communications and Competition Law Conference

Event

April 25, 2022

Jenner & Block Partner Samuel L. Feder moderated this examination and review of the latest mergers in the telecoms, media, and tech sectors. Panelists discussed key issues, trends, and themes coming out of these recent mergers, including horizontal consolidation, vertical aspects, the importance of data, and market definition in dynamic markets. The discussion was part of the International Bar Association’s Communications and Competition Law Conference, held in Madrid, Spain. Mr. Feder is the managing partner of Jenner & Block’s Washington, DC, office and co-chair of the Communications, Internet, and Technology Practice. He represents cable, telecom, media and technology companies in a variety of matters including litigation, proceedings before regulatory agencies, and transactions. He serves as the regulators liaison officer for the International Bar Association’s Communications Law Committee.
