June 29, 2022

In this article, Partner Rachel K. Alpert, Associate Ali I. Alsarraf, and Summer Associate Ariella Katz answer 10 key questions about how the Uyghur Forced Labor Prevention Act (UFLPA) will work in practice. Their analysis addresses the key points for companies seeking to prove the absence of forced labor in their supply chains.

Ms. Alpert is co-chair of Jenner & Block's National Security, Sanctions, and Export Controls Practice. She is an international lawyer who brings a wealth of experience in economic sanctions, export controls, and human rights issues from her seven years in the United States Department of State's Office of the Legal Adviser. She counsels domestic and international clients on a range of issues, including trade sanctions compliance, supply chain and human rights accountability, and CFIUS matters.

Mr. Alsarraf is a commercial litigator who represents companies and individuals in their most complex and high-stakes disputes. As an associate in the firm's Litigation Department, Mr. Alsarraf litigates and advises clients regarding crises that pose an existential threat to their businesses or brands.
