

Investigations

Effective investigations require integrity, judgment, and experience. For decades, Jenner & Block's recognized authority in investigative matters has provided companies and their leaders with guidance, confidence, and clarity during some of their most sensitive and challenging moments, including with respect to fraud and financial crimes, corruption, data privacy and cybersecurity incidents, #MeToo investigations, human rights violations, cross-border enforcement and compliance, monitorships, whistleblower allegations, and more.

Our significant experience with government enforcement agencies, prosecutors, and regulators enables us to provide sound advice concerning the best course of action if wrongdoing is identified or alleged, including potential disclosure to authorities or ardent defense. We also help clients promote and embed their values through sophisticated compliance counseling, helping to strengthen ethics and integrity programs that can safeguard or rebuild reputations, stabilize culture, and sustain the company's long-term success. In every engagement we present our clients with our candid advice so that companies can move forward productively.

We also deliver valuable insight from our own deep government experience. Our team includes nearly 20 former Assistant United States Attorneys and US Department of Justice prosecutors, the US Securities and Exchange Commission, and other government entities.
