

Transactional

Consequential business transactions require sophisticated, nimble, and creative legal representation. With a successful track record of representing clients in some of the largest and most complex deals in history, Jenner & Block provides the full spectrum of transactional services to help our clients capture the opportunities that will shape their future.

From M&A deals to restructurings, corporate finance to capital markets, corporate governance to joint ventures, and with special capabilities in tax, real estate, employee benefits and executive compensation, antitrust, and private wealth, environmental, our experienced and talented team of practitioners provide clear vision, sound judgment, and thoughtful strategic guidance throughout the transaction lifecycle and beyond.

We bring business acumen, legal mastery, and an impeccable commitment to client service and integrity to every transactional matter we undertake. Our clients range from large public companies to small businesses and individuals, and everything in between, including privately held businesses, private equity and other funds, wealthy families and estate fiduciaries, non-profits, and start-ups.

We serve clients across a variety of industries, with particular experience representing clients in highly regulated industries, including aerospace and defense, agriculture, cannabis, education, energy, food and beverage, healthcare and life sciences, telecommunications, technology, transportation, and media and entertainment, among others. We also counsel clients and corporate boards on legal requirements and best practices for ESG-related regulatory requirements, reporting, and disclosure. Working in tandem, our transactional and regulatory lawyers, including a deep bench of former officials from key government entities, deliver the credibility and critical knowledge needed to help clients navigate challenges and seize opportunities. And where a transactional matter requires a litigation or investigatory assessment or perspective or involves a regulatory issue, we work hand in hand with the lawyers in other departments to provide the full suite of services to our clients.
