

COVID-19

Just days after the World Health Organization declared COVID-19 a pandemic, Jenner & Block assembled a task force and resource center aimed at helping clients navigate these uncharted waters. Entering its third year, our multidisciplinary counsel on the legal and business implications of COVID-19 stands apart. For businesses and organizations managing the challenges triggered by the pandemic—be they legal, human, operational, or financial, Jenner & Block offers a holistic, nimble, and forward-thinking approach.

Multidisciplinary Task Force Lends Knowledge and Experience

Our resource center is supported by a Task Force of lawyers who practice firmwide. These lawyers include partners from a variety of practice areas and sectors and who provide insight on the range of issues that COVID-19 presents. With experience in workplace health and safety, health care, insurance, labor and employment, government contracts, data privacy, and more, Task Force members offer thought leadership on a range of topics like vaccine mandates and OSHA guidance.
