

“West Virginia v. EPA: The Major Questions Doctrine Arrives to Rein in Administrative Power,” Pratt’s Energy Law Report

Publications

August 23, 2022

In this article, Jenner & Block Partner Allison A. Torrence and Special Counsel Tatjana Vujic discuss the implications of the US Supreme Court’s decision addressing the authority of the US Environmental Protection Agency to regulate greenhouse gases under the federal Clean Air Act. The authors observe that the highly anticipated opinion in West Virginia v. EPA “signals a significant shift in the standards used to review administrative actions.”

The decision, as the authors observe, also “requires agencies, in instances in which a regulation will have major economic and political consequences, to point to clear statutory language showing congressional authorization for the power claimed by the agency.”

Read the full article here.

Related Capabilities

Appellate and Supreme Court

Energy

Environmental and Workplace Health and Safety

Transitions in Energy and Climate Solutions communication is Brent E. Kidwell, Jenner & Block LLP, 353 N. Clark Street, Chicago, IL 60654-3456. Prior results do not guarantee a similar outcome. Jenner & Block London LLP, an affiliate of Jenner & Block LLP, is a limited liability partnership established under the laws of the State of Delaware, USA and is authorised and regulated by the Solicitors Regulation Authority with SRA number 615729. Information regarding the data we collect and the rights you have over your data can be found in our Privacy Notice. For further inquiries, please contact dataprotection@jenner.com.

Stay Informed

