Overview

Erica Turret helps clients tackle complicated statutory and constitutional questions in a variety of areas. She assists clients in navigating high-profile matters before trial and appellate courts, administrative agencies, and Congress.

Erica supports the firm's proud tradition of addressing high-impact issues by serving as an Associate Co-Chair of the Organizational Values and Strategy Task Force. In this role, she advises educational institutions, foundations, nonprofit organizations, and companies on legal strategy, helping them review and fortify their diversity initiatives in an evolving landscape. A member of the National Association of College and University Attorneys, Erica is a core associate member of the firm's Education Practice. She assists colleges and universities with high-profile issues and disputes including those related to admissions, Title VI, Title IX, and free speech.

Erica maintains a robust pro bono practice, focusing on access to health care. She completed a pro bono fellowship at National Health Law Program (NHeLP). Erica continues to work closely with the organization, representing low-income Medicaid enrollees in high-profile litigation at all levels of the federal courts.
