Overview

Jen Holthaus started her career in Jenner & Block’s Litigation Department in 2020. She left the firm to gain valuable experience as a law clerk to the Honorable Vernon S. Broderick of the US District Court for the Southern District of New York. In that role, Jen researched and drafted opinions and orders on a variety of complex litigation issues and independently managed and resolved daily motions and filings in over 100 civil and criminal cases. Following her clerkship, she returned to the firm in 2022.

Prior to launching her career at Jenner & Block, Jen earned her JD from the University of Michigan Law School. During law school, she served as an associate editor of the Michigan Journal of Gender and the Law. She also worked as a student attorney in the Michigan Innocence Clinic.
