

Regulating Conflict and Competition: The Economic Levers of National Security, University of Virginia's National Security Law Center

Event

February 24, 2023

On February 24, Partner Rachel Alpert will speak on a panel at Regulating Conflict and Competition: The Economic Levers of National Security, a conference hosted by University of Virginia's National Security Law Center. The conversation will focus on economic sanctions and how they are utilized to manage international conflict and competition. Learn more here. Companies around the world turn to Rachel when they need a forward-thinking and tactical lawyer who can help them address US sanctions, export controls, and human rights risks and obligations. She previously spent seven years as an Attorney-Adviser at the State Department under four Secretaries of State and two US Presidents. This experience equipped Rachel with a talent for advising policymakers on complicated international issues and guiding companies through significant sanctions, human rights, and CFIUS matters. She serves as a Co-Chair of the firm's National Security, Sanctions, and Export Controls; Human Rights and Global Strategy; and ESG Practices.
