The National Law Journal recognized Jenner & Block Partner Wade A. Thomson as a 2023 Immigration Law Trailblazer.

Wade's profile highlights his collaborative efforts with corporate clients and the National Immigrant Justice Center, the change that has resulted from this concept, and the bearing it will have on the future. He told the publication, "I just saw a clear path to expanding the amount of lawyers involved in helping others. I want to be clear that this is really about making it easier for others to get involved; everyone who I've gotten involved already had the desire to help people – facilitating, encouraging, and stewarding that force for good has in turn inspired me and renewed my faith in people."

When asked what bearing this will have on the future, Wade said, "The pro bono partnership model I believe has also provided a real-life education to many corporate attorneys about immigration issues – my hope is that this will help inform a better immigration system in the future."
