Following recent court orders over the availability of mifepristone in a case that has rocketed from district court in Texas to the U.S. Supreme Court, Partner Adam Unikowsky has been featured in national publications to discuss his analysis of the case that has implications for the reproductive health care of women across the country.

Adam sat down with NBC's Meet the Press, NPR's All Things Considered, Bloomberg Law, CQ-Roll Call, and Law360 to discuss the implications of this case and his reasoning on why the decisions of the district court and Fifth Circuit are incorrect. His blog post, Mifepristone and the rule of law, part 2, has been quoted by ABA Journal, CNN, Reason.com, Slate Magazine, The Washington Post, and Vanity Fair.

Adam is a partner in the firm's Appellate and Supreme Court Practice. His experience spans a wide range of industries and subject matter, including securities litigation, Indian law, patents, civil procedure, and constitutional law. He has argued before the Supreme Court nine times in his career.
