

North Carolina League of Conservation Voters Honors Partners Jessica Ring Amunson and Sam Hirsch

Recognition

May 24, 2023

Partners Jessie Ring Amunson and Sam Hirsch have represented the North Carolina League of Conservation Voters for the last two years in state and federal cases challenging North Carolina's gerrymandered congressional and state-legislative redistricting plans. On May 24, the NCLCV honored them with its "Catalyst Award," which is presented to "someone with a long history and/or strong commitment to serving the public, protecting environmental quality, standing up for North Carolinians, or defending our democracy." Jessie and Sam led the team that secured a ruling in 2022 from the North Carolina Supreme Court that the state constitution prohibits partisan gerrymandering. As a result, voters went to the polls in November 2022 and voted in free and fair elections and elected a congressional delegation that matched the political composition of the state.
