

Partner Debbie Berman to Speak on Panel at the American Conference Institute's Women Leaders in IP Law Conference

Event

June 6, 2023

Partner Debbie Berman will share her insights on a panel entitled, “Shh! – It’s A Secret: Taking a Closer Look at Trade Secrets and Their Role in A Remote & Globalized Era” during the American Conference Institute’s Women Leaders in IP Law event. The panel, held on June 6, will discuss key questions surrounding trade secrets in the new workplace landscape, including best practices in advising clients on trade secrets, managing the risk of potential public disclosure with other IP protections, and examining the concerns with trade secrets in the growing AI and software industries. Learn more. First-chair trial lawyer Debbie Berman is co-chair of Jenner & Block’s Trade Secrets and Restrictive Covenants Practice and its Business Litigation Practice. She recently achieved a landmark victory in a major international trade secrets and unfair competition case resulting in a federal jury verdict of ~$114 million and an extensive injunction; this matter is in the Supreme Court currently. She has a long track record of litigating significant trade secrets cases, including PepsiCo, Inc. v. Redmond, the seminal Seventh Circuit inevitable disclosure case. Debbie is a recognized thought leader on the changing landscape of restrictive covenant, including as the founding author of the firm’s trade secrets practice guide.
