

Pro Bono Client Released After Serving 25 Years in Prison, Habeas Petition Set to be Filed

News

July 28, 2023

In partnership with Loyola Law School's Project for the Innocent (LPI) a team of Jenner & Block lawyers is representing a pro bono client who was convicted of murder in 1999. After serving 25 in prison, our client was released on parole on July 28.

The Jenner team will be filing a habeas petition on behalf of the client to have his conviction dismissed based on witness recantations, Brady violations, and other government misconduct. Although he has been released, our team is working to have this conviction overturned to give him the opportunity of living his life without the disadvantages of having a criminal record.

The team is being led by Partner Brandon Fox with assistance from Associates Rebekah Lee and Blaine Valencia.
