

“Insurance Policy Language: Impact of Computer Malware on Traditional Notions Of ‘War’,” Financier Worldwide's Risk & Compliance

Publications

October-December 2023 Issue
By: David M. Kroeger, Huiyi Chen

In their article, Partner David Kroeger and Associate Huiyi Chen explore the market for cyber insurance coverage. They focus on the trend in which insurers are limiting coverage for “state sponsored” or “state backed” cyber incidents—in other words, incidents perpetrated by a government or nation state against another state. For companies that rely on cyber insurance coverage, such reductions in coverage could be significant, the authors observe.
