

“Understanding the Nuances of the Attorney-Client Privilege and Work Product Doctrine,” Los Angeles Chapter of the Federal Bar Association

Event

May 9, 2024

Special Counsel Carolyn Small will share her insights during a panel titled “Understanding the Nuances of the Attorney-Client Privilege and Work Product Doctrine” held by the Los Angeles Chapter of the Federal Bar Association and hosted by Crowell & Moring LLP at its offices in downtown Los Angeles.

The panel will cover the attorney-client privilege and work product doctrine, how they affect civil and criminal matters, and safeguarding the confidentiality of communications between lawyers and their clients. The panel will discuss how privilege and doctrine apply in various scenarios, such as joint defense context and dealing with third parties.

The panel begins at 6 pm on May 9 PT at Crowell & Moring LLP, 515 South Flower St., 41st floor in Los Angeles. Registration is free, but limited to the first 50 registered.
