

“Trade Secret Protection and Enforcement,” 68th Annual Intellectual Property, Information & Privacy Law Conference

Event

November 8, 2024

Partner Jason Bradford spoke at the 68th Annual Intellectual Property, Information & Privacy Law Conference, a CLE presented by the University of Illinois Chicago’s Center for IP, Information & Privacy Law. This conference focused on sharing important developments in the field and aims to empower practitioners to help create better laws and policies that promote innovation, creativity, and entrepreneurship.

During his panel, Jason discussed the implications of AI for both protecting trade secrets and the risks AI poses to trade secret exposure. Additionally, he covered the extraterritorial reach of the Defend Trade Secrets Act and developing differences in damages awards and other issues that may be important in choosing venue for trade secret enforcement litigation.

Related Attorneys

Jason M. Bradford

Partner

jbradford@jenner.com

+1 312 840 7225

Related Capabilities

AI Task Force

Trade Secrets and Restrictive Covenants

Related Locations

Chicago

Stay Informed

