Overview

Breana Drozd is a detail-oriented and versatile litigator who advises clients across a range of industries. With a commitment to understanding each client's unique challenges and objectives, Breana works collaboratively to develop strategic and practical business solutions at all stages of litigation.

Her practice extends beyond pretrial and trial work to include helping clients navigate the appellate phase of litigation. Breana successfully argued an appeal involving complex contract law and public policy issues. Across all aspects of her practice, she leverages extensive research, writing, and advocacy skills to craft the right approach to achieve her client's goals.

Breana maintains a robust pro bono practice, representing clients in post-conviction, immigration, and other civil rights matters in state and federal courts.

A variety of civil litigation experiences inform Breana's approach. Prior to law school, she worked as a paralegal at a boutique Chicago law firm. After law school, Breana was a member of Jenner & Block's Bankruptcy and Restructuring Practice, where she helped debtors, creditors, and corporate entities navigate the bankruptcy process. Before returning to Jenner, Breana served as a law clerk to the Honorable James L. Robart of the United States District Court for the Western District of Washington.
