

Associate Sarah Lee Accepted into NAPABA's Prospective Partners Program

News

November 11, 2025

Associate Sarah Lee was among only 10 lawyers selected for this year's Prospective Partners Program at the National Asian Pacific American Bar Association (NAPABA) Convention in Denver. The program aims to increase the number of NAPABA attorney member partners at major law firms through introduction, mentorship, and relationship building.

In the weeks leading up to the event, prospective partners were paired with a “partner mentor” from a different law firm to receive feedback and guidance on their presentation and career development. Then during the program, invited prospective partners had the opportunity to introduce themselves and their practices to a panel of senior in-house counsel during the convention.
