

Jenner & Block Receives Iranian American Bar Association's Pro Bono Award

Recognition

November 15, 2025

On November 15, Jenner & Block received the Iranian American Bar Association's (IABA) Pro Bono Award. The IABA presents its Pro Bono Award annually to recognize a law firm that has provided outstanding pro bono legal representation.

Each year, Jenner lawyers contribute thousands of pro bono hours, using their skills to expand access to legal services.

Jenner's recent partnership with the National Immigrant Justice Center has special meaning for the Iranian American community. The firm represented a client who fled Iran after facing political persecution for converting to Christianity. The case resulted in a grant of asylum, enabling him to live freely in the United States. He can now practice his faith and express his political beliefs without fear of being forced to return to Iran, where he would face imprisonment, torture, or death. This case, along with many others, demonstrates Jenner's commitment to dedicated advocacy and expanding access to justice.

Partner Megan Poetzel and Associate Sara Stappert accepted the award on behalf of the firm.
